Referrals

Your referral to others is the highest compliment you can give. If you do suggest our services to friends or family members, we greatly appreciate it.

Confidentiality

Fuller Life Family Therapy upholds strict policies regarding confidentiality. Please carefully review our notice of privacy practices for limits of confidentiality.

Due to confidentiality, FLFT Therapists only see couples together in therapy. Individuals participating in couple's therapy are not seen individually by the same therapist. When participating in couple's therapy, please ensure any email correspondence with the therapist includes both partners in the email.

Our code of ethics grants confidentiality even to minors. Material discussed in therapy with children or adolescents will not be disclosed to parents. The therapist may share clinical opinions, discuss assessment and treatment goals or involve parents in treatment when appropriate.

CONSULTATION and TRAINING

Fuller Life Family Therapy Institute is a training institute. Your therapist will consult regularly with the clinical supervisor and colleagues within FLFT regarding your clinical treatment. Each member of the FLFT team has committed to uphold the highest standard of care, ethics and confidentiality.

To provide the highest quality of care and intensive therapy training, we utilize video for clinical supervision purposes. Video is stored for less than 30 days and is kept on secure HIPAA-compliant servers.

LEGAL CONCERNS:

All disputes arising out of, or in relation to counseling services shall first be referred to mediation, before, and as a pre-condition of, the initiation of arbitration. The mediator shall be a neutral third party.

Should the therapist receive a subpoena and need to appear in court, the client is responsible for the hourly fee including time on call and traveling.

THE PROCESS OF THERAPY

Participation in therapy can result in a number of benefits to you, including improving interpersonal relationships and resolution of the specific concerns that led you to seek therapy. Working toward these benefits requires your active involvement, honesty, and openness.

Attempting to resolve issues that brought you to therapy in the first place, such as personal or interpersonal relationships, may result in changes that were not originally intended. Sometimes a decision that is positive for one family member is viewed quite negatively by another family member. There is no guarantee that psychotherapy will yield positive or intended results.

If you have any unanswered questions about any of the procedures used during your therapy, their possible risks, your therapist's expertise in employing them, or about the treatment plan, please discuss this with your therapist.

Your therapist provides neither custody evaluation recommendation nor medication or prescription recommendation nor legal advice, as these activities do not fall within her/his scope of practice.

TERMINATION:

A therapist does not work with clients who, in his/her opinion, he/she cannot help. In such a case, if appropriate, you will be given referrals that you can contact.

A therapist has the right to refer to alternate organizations or therapists when appropriate and cease providing treatment. Here are some examples of client behavior that may result in a therapist terminating services:

- attending sessions under the influence of alcohol or drugs
- displaying or threatening violent tendencies
- non-professional sexual expression
- demonstrating non-compliant behaviors
- two consecutive no-shows

You have the right to terminate therapy at any time. Upon your request, your therapist will provide you with names of other qualified professionals whose services you might prefer.

SOCIAL MEDIA POLICY:

We do not accept friend requests from current or former clients on PERSONAL social networking sites, such as Facebook or Twitter. Adding clients as friends or contacts on these sites can compromise your confidentiality and our respective privacy. It may also blur the boundaries of our therapeutic relationship.

For this same reason, we request clients not communicate with us via any interactive or social networking sites. These sites are not secure and we may not read these messages in a timely fashion. The best way to contact us between sessions is by phone.

We regularly write about relational or mental health on our professional blog on our website and curate great articles and resources we find on Scoopit! To get the most recent updates follow us on Facebook or Twitter, or subscribe to our newsletter or blog on our website, our professional Facebook profile or on the communication preferences form.

The most private way to stay connected with our online resources is through our newsletter. We never share your information with a third party. We invite you to follow our Fuller Life twitter or Facebook profile or as these are professional profiles, however, please know doing so may compromise your own confidentiality.

BUSINESS REVIEW SITES:

FLFT has a presence on sites such as Yelp, Google, Yahoo, etc. which list businesses and may include forums in which users rate their providers and add reviews. Our listing is NOT a request for a testimonial, rating, or endorsement. Our professional Code of Ethics prohibits our soliciting testimonials from clients.
